Hottest Bars in Atlanta

September 15, 2017 · by Zagat Staff

If you want a drink, you're in the right city. We've got everything: casual neighborhood hangouts where the cocktails are top-notch, rowdy joints where you can throw back a few cold ones with friends and quiet places where you can chat with the bartender about a still under-the-radar Italian liqueur. So, where are Atlantans drinking right now?

 ZAGAT RATED

Simon Guobadia's new Midtown spot offers Southern cooking with global flavors in a contemporary, multilevel space, while the bar stirs up alluring drinks for energetic crowds.

Must-order: For a lighter sip well suited to the rich food, opt for the 1970, a fizzy concoction blending Pere Ventura cava, lemongrass, ginger and other botanicals, and Savannah's own The 1970 vodka.

Insider tip: Simon's has a daily happy hour from 5–7 PM, with specially priced bites and drinks at the bar; the same menu's also available on weekends from 10 PM–midnight.
