The 10 Sexiest New Restaurants and Bars in Atlanta

September 22, 2017 · by Christopher Hassiotis

Atlanta has always been home to some rather stunning restaurants and bars, spaces so jaw-droppingly gorgeous that they almost — almost! — lend credence to the expression "eat with your eyes first." And this year, some of the finest new restaurants in ATL are as great in the visuals department as they are with food and hospitality. Below, check out the sexiest recent openings around town.

Under chef Allysa Storms, this new Midtown fusion spot in the former home of Straits and Time takes Southern comfort classics and gives them a burst of global flavors, drawing on cuisines from Spain to Japan. Designed by Nigel Ingleton, the central bar's a stunner, with plush tufted red leather below and translucent glass baubles above, while the multilevel open floor plan provides numerous vistas from which to take in the modern decor and tony clientele.
